UNITED STATES AIR FORCE

CHIEF MASTER SERGEANT TRANG S. MAXIE

CMSgt Trang S. Maxie is the Wing Command Chief, 147th Attack Wing, Ellington Field Joint Reserve Base, Houston, Texas. She is the wing's senior enlisted leader and is responsible for advising the commander on mission effectiveness, professional development, military readiness, training, utilization, health, morale and welfare of the wing's enlisted personnel.

Chief Maxie enlisted in the Ohio Air National Guard in March 2001 into the Telephone Systems career field and graduated technical school training January 2002. Upon her return, she was assigned as a telephone systems craftsman and deployed in support of Hurricane Katrina relief efforts. In March 2007, she cross-trained to become the Unit Training Manager. In November 2010, Chief Maxie transferred to the Texas Air National Guard as a Client Systems Craftsman. She then deployed in support of Operation FREEDOM SENTINAL as the Air Forces Central Command Engineering Installation project manager. In June 2019, she joined the technician force as the 272d Engineering and Installations Project Manager. In September 2021, Chief Maxie was selected to represent the 147th Attack Wing as part of the state-wide Talent Management Alignment Working Group. She previously held various officer positions within the wing's Chiefs Council, Unit Advisory Board and the State Senior Enlisted Advisory Council.

Chief Maxie is a board member on multiple non-profit organizations, handling fundraising, volunteer and event coordination, and online presence. She has a diverse civilian professional background ranging from corporate management to education, non-profit and business consulting, serving as a mentor and advisor on professional development and training for multiple professional organizations. Prior to her current position, Chief Maxie was the Operations Flight Chief for the 272d Engineering Installation Squadron, Ellington Field Joint Reserve Base, Houston, Texas.
