UNITED STATES AIR FORCE

CHIEF MASTER SERGEANT TRANG S. MAXIE

CMSgt Trang S. Maxie is the Wing Command Chief, 147th Attack Wing, Ellington Field Joint Reserve Base, Houston, Texas. She is the Chief Enlisted Manager and is responsible for advising the commander on mission effectiveness, professional development, military readiness, training, utilization, health, morale and welfare of the 1,147 enlisted personnel.

CMSgt Maxie enlisted in the Ohio Air National Guard in March 2001 into the 269th Combat Communications Squadron as telephone systems maintainer and graduated technical school training January 2002. While assigned, she deployed in support of Hurricane Katrina relief efforts and held multiple positions within the organization. In November 2010, CMSgt Maxie transferred to the Texas Air National Guard as a Client Systems Craftsman. She then deployed in support of Operation FREEDOM'S SENTINEL as the Air Force Central Command Engineering Installation project manager and later became the 272nd Engineering and Installations Project Manager. In September 2021, CMSgt Maxie was selected to represent the 147th Attack Wing as part of the state-wide Talent Management Alignment Working Group, an effort established to optimize the talent within the Texas Air National Guard. She previously held various officer positions within the Wing and State councils.

CMSgt Maxie has a diverse civilian professional background ranging from corporate management, education, non-profit and business consulting, serving as a mentor and advisor on professional development and training for multiple organizations. Prior to her current position, CMSgt Maxie was the Senior Enlisted Leader for the 272nd Engineering Installation Squadron, Ellington Field Joint Reserve Base, Houston, Texas.
